Mayor's Office, Municipal Hall, Pittsburg, Pa., June 19, 1890.

To the Citizens of Pittsburgt In the midst of the many irksome and pressing duties of life it is proper that with the recurrence of Independence Day the good patriot shall pause a moment to offer a fitting tribute to the noble founders of this great Republic, and to inculcate in the minds of the younger generation the principles of republicanism and devotion to country. With this end in view I invite all citizen to unite in celebrating the coming annivereary of the independence of the United States in an appropriate and patriotic man-H. I. GOURLEY, Mayor.

The above shows that Mayor Gourley is in carnest in his advocacy of an old-fashioned Fourth of July. His Honor has not confined himself to this, but has been actively engaged in arranging for the details of the proposed demonstration at Schenley Park. Mayor Gourley asserts with confidence that at the lowest calculation 20,000 men, women and children will be at the park on the Fourth of July, if only old Sol will smile favorably upon our patriotic citi-

City Controller Morrow yesterday, in speaking of the hold upon the popular mind this idea had obtained, said he was riding out Fifth avenue with a carload of gripmen who were going to the power house to report for duty. The men were talking about the proposed demonstration and heartily commended it. The Controller remarked that it would not benefit them much, as they would be unable to attend.
"We know that," they replied, "but our wives and little ones can go, and they will

Sheriff McCandless will have a sertet in attendance to sing patriotic airs, and to lead the vast crowd in the rendering of the national anthem. At least one first-class band will be secured. As a matter of course, Mayor Gourley, as the city's chief executive, will preside. Several clergymen, of different faiths, will be asked to attend and speak, that the affair may be entirely

Colonel Elkins, of the Fifth Avenue Traction road, could not see any reason why his company should carry the children at reduced fares, and the idea of reducing fares for this occasion had not entered his mind He would not suggest the idea to the board, nor did he think it at all probable that it would pass that body.

The Secretary of the Pittsburg, Allegheny and Manchester road said: "Although our officials had not thought of any reduction, I must say that the plan seems to be a very good one. I don't think there will be the least difficulty in bringing it before the board. Mr. Dalzell, the President, always favors a charitable project. Only to-day the road brought nearly 500 children from their homes in Allegheny to this side of the river for nothing. Joseph L. Evans, Master Workman, District Assembly No. 3, K. of L., is delighted with the proposed demonstration. He says: "It is a good ides to have an oldfashioned Fourth of July. It is time to revive the patriotism of our forelathers, who ft us such a glorious heritage of freedom. Nowadays the Fourth is like any other holiday. Too many people make up parties and go to picnics. They lose the spirit of the day, and our patriotism is blunted."

GIVING OUT THE FIGURES.

New Order From Census Superintendent Porter-Finding the Owners of Dinmonds-An Enumerator's Lack of Energy-Making the People Answer the News was received in this city by wire last night that Census Superintendent Porter had advised Supervisor Oliver, who has charge of the census work in Alleghenv county, to give out such population totals as he had in his possession for publication. Mr. Oliver was seen at his home, in Hazelwood, last night, and stated that he had received no order of that character from Mr Porter as yet, and until he did he would have to refuse making public any census

Among the other information sought after by the Census Bureau is the production of precious stones in this country. Every manufacturing jeweler has received a blank in which he is asked a number of questions about the stones he has cut, polished or used in any way, and is also asked to give the name and address of the owner.

way, and is also asset to give the name and address of the owner.

The enumerators are bringing in their returns slowly, and Mr. Oliver says he does not intend to hurry them, as he proposes to have the work thoroughly done. He has met with some difficuty in carrying out this idea. One enumerator in the Fourth ward, who had a district containing about 2,000 persons, brought in a list of 479, and said that was all he could find. Among the people he omitted to enumer-ate were the families of a number of men well known in political and social circles. A new enumerator was appointed, who will go over the intire district again.

The Hungarians at Braddock who refused to answer the census enumerator's questions reconsidered their determination yesterday when an officer appeared with warrants for their arrests. Upon complying with the census law they were released.

Mr. Oliver expects the aid of every citizen in making the census correct in every detail, and is glad to receive notice from persons who have been overlooked by the enumerator. He thinks the trouble does not he aitogether with the census takers. Yesterday an enumerator went to the house of a prominent merchant. The lady of the house refused to see the enumerator went to the United States District Attorney's office to get a warrant, but a little later met the merchant, who apologized for his wife's behavior, and gave the necessary informetion.

Western University Sophomores a Little Too

Fresh for the Freshmen. There were high jinks at the Hotel Duquesn last night. The freshmen of the Western University ordered a sumptuous banquet at Mr. Witherow's hostelry for last night, and cau-tioned Mr. Witherow to look out for the sophomores. The latter were sorely guyed about their inability to materialize a "feed," but said nothing and sawed wood. While the commencement was in progress the freshman toastmaster was decored into the cellar of Carnegie Hall and locked up by the sophs. Then the sophs telephoned to the Duquesne to set out the banquet and to look out for the sophomores, who had stolen the freshie badges. The sophs reached the hôtel, and, masquerading as freshmen, got into the banquet hall and downed the spread. They were just finishing when the injured freshmen arrived in triumph with the toastmaster, who had been found and released. The hotel people took the late arrivals for sophs, and the circus that ensued when explanations were made defies description. But the freshie banquet had gone glimmering. but said nothing and sawed wood. While the

of Free Coinage. POSTMASTER M'KEAN'S SALARY RAISED

Lively interest was manifested yesterday when the news of Colonel Bayne's arrival n Pittsburg spread through the city. A large number of friends called on him at the Hotel Schlosser, where he is stopping. Visitors dropped around in the morning and afternoon, and found the Colonel in the best of spirits. "The object of my visit here," he said to a DISPATCH reporter last night, "Is business, pure and simple. I saw Postmaster McKean about matters pertaining to the department in regard to appropriating more funds for an increased force and the turnishing of the new postoffice. I am also in the city on business pertaining to the new Allegheny Government building. The preliminary appropriation of $67,000 will purchase a site, and I want to see that done within the next month. After that the work must be pushed through with dispatch. There is no need of the delay experienced in the building of the new Pittsburg postoffice. I think the Allegheny Government building ought to be completed in two years from now, at the most."
"What do you think the House will do in regard to the Senate's free coinage bill?" was "There is great danger that the House will

"There is great danger that the House will pass it as it stands, though Speaker Reed and the Eastern delegations will oppose it to a man. I am strongly opposed to free coinage, and think every well-balanced man would be. I polled the Pennsylvania delegation and found there were but two in the entire list, James B. Reilly, of Pottsville, and James Kerr, of Clearfield, who favered free coinages and who stated there were but two in the entire list, James B. Reilly, of Pottsville, and James Kerr, of Clearfield, who favered free coinage, and who stated that they would vote for the Senate bill."

The Colonel handed the reporter his list, showing the representatives from this State who are opposed to free coinage, and the two who favored it. Following are those who were against it: Henry H. Bingham, Charles O'Neill, Richard Vaux, John E. Reyburn and Aifred C. Harmer, all of Philadelphia: Smedley Darlington, West Chester; Robert M. Yardley, Doylestown; William Murchler, Easton; David B. "All the above," said the Colonel, "will steadily oppose the Senate bill to the last, Free coinage simply means a temporary spurt in booming business, followed by a flat depression. It means a 75-cent dollar to the workingman, a flat dollar in business, and in every branch of industry."

Colonel Bayne was questioned in regard to the political situation in the Twenty-third Congressional district, but said that he was not in politics, and nad nothing to say about Colonel Stone or any other candidate. A POLISH WEDDING

Celebrated in a Manner That is Rather Novel to the Uninitiated American-Five Dollars Charged for Each Dance With

Many a citizen on the Southside who chanced to be anywhere near Odd Fellows' Hall last night, stopped to inquire the cause of the awful jumble of discordant noises that filled the air. Likewise many peeped into the door of the hall, to view the scene inside, and then ventured in to enjoy the fun.

The cause of all the rumpus was the celebration of a Polish weeding. John Lobof. ski and Sarah Faranski were married at St. Adelbert's Church in the merbing, and they with their friends, were celebrating the event. The hall has been engaged for five days, and the celebration will be kept up for that time.

The musicians had their coats and vests off, hlowing for all they were worth. The dance was a hop, skip and jump, ending in a whoop at the end. The bride was dressed in pink, with a white veil and crown of flowers. Each man who danced with her had to pay the groom $\frac{5}{5}$, and the sum netted will be used by the couple to start housekeeping. All the guests, including the police officials, kissed the bride in regular Polish fashion.

During the dauce the men smoked tobies and some wore their hats. Some had their coats off, and later, as the dance became faster, took off their vests. One and had his shirt existed for their vests. One man had his shirt ignited from a cigar, and whirled around the hall until his arm was burned before he discovered it. When the last horn squeaked a wild rush was made for the bar in the back room and the tables spread with bologna and cheese.

NEARLY A LYNCHING.

The Result of the Infamous Acts of Two Poles on the Southside.

Yesterday afternoon a messenger breath essly informed Officer Smith, of the South side, that two men had almost killed a woman on Muriel street, near South Thirteenth, and that a mob had collected about the house with the intention of lynching them. The officer hastened to the place and found that the situatton had not been misrepresented. A mob of several hundred persons had collected about the house at No. 1306 Muriel street, and were trying to get inside. The entire population of the neighborhood had gathered with the intention of dealing out vengeance to the two men whom they claimed had attempted to kill a woman. Officer Smith had to fight his way into the house, and only succeeded in gaining into the house, and only succeeded in gaining an entrance after the hardest kind of a strug-gie. He lound a woman, out and bleeding, her clothing torn into shreds and in a fainting con-ciothing forn into shreds and in a fainting conditior, attended by a group of women, who were bathing her face and cleansing her of blood which literally covered her from head to foot. Her name is Mrs. Joseph Okiche, a Slav, the victim of an assault.

The injured woman's version of the affair was secured by Captain Stewart through an interpreter. She said that her husband, Okiche, had held her in his arms, or attempted to do so, while Tuzar assaulted her. Her rage lent her additional strength, and she says she fought like a tigress. She was overmatched in such a struggle, and, although she continued to fight fiercely, would have been overpowered had not assistance arrived, attracted by her screams, and put an end to the struggle. Okiche and Tuzar were detained by some of the crowd until Captain Stewart and Officer Smith came, when they were arrested,

The Rejected Glassworkers to Organize a Union for Themselves. TWO THOUSAND GLASS EMPLOYES

Will Join in the New Movement for Their Mutual Protection.

STATUS OF THE RAILROAD STRIKE

A new union of glassworkers is being organized in Pittsburg. The employes about glass houses for years have been knocking for admission at the locked doors of the flint and green glass associations, and for as many years have they been refused. At last, in despair, they propose to band together under the name of the Glass House Employes' Association. They believe that by this means they can form an organization strong enough to compel recognition at the hands of the owners of flint, window and green glass houses, and secure just compensation for their labor. To this end a meeting has been called on July 14, to be held in Exchange Hall, South Twelfth The branche's of labor expected to be represented at this meeting are the packers, etchers, decorators, teasers, grinders, punsmoothers, flatteners (not those employed at window glass houses), and gen-eral glasshouse laborers. It is believed that such an organization would contain at least 2,000 members, it all the employes of these classes in glass houses could be induced to join the new organization. On this subject a glass house teaser said yesterday: REFUSED FOR YEARS.

"For four years the teasers, mixers and "For four years the teasers, mixers and packers have been vainly trying to induce the window, flint and green glassworkers' organizations to admit them, as they desire to be strong union men. This the leaders of these organizations have refused, although the teasers and mixers have always stood by the so-called skilled workers when the latter went out on strikes, well knowing that no benefit would accrue to them, even if the glassworkers did win.

"The glasshouse packers three times applied for admission into the American Flint Glass Workers' Union—at Hamilton, Ontario, Atlantic City and Canton, O. "The reason the packers were refused at Canton was because the Flintworkers' Union had taken in the cutters, moldmakers and engravers, who were not entirely organized at the time. upon the blowers, who were them in a compar-atively settled state. The outters were striking in many shops, and to settle these difficulties the Flint Glass Workers' Union had much diffi-culty. The officials, therefore, to avoid similar troubles told the glass packers that they could not admit the latter until two-thirds of the packers were organized. Since the packers were refused, the flint glassworkers took in the Bohemian glassworkers, and this fact, together with the agitation which the eight-hour movement has brought about, has encouraged the packers to strive earnestly to build up their organization. A general sentiment in favor of organization ex-ists throughout the glass trades in this respect. "The glass and china decorators, who are skilled workmen, are now moving to form an organization, and the object of the convention is to unite all these embryonic organizations, with the object of being eventually taken into the flint glass union."

A GENERAL GLASS CONSOLIDATION. In commenting on the move the Commone

In commenting on the move the Commoner and Glassworker will say:

The different departments of skilled and unskilled labor connected with the glass industry are about to make a grand effort toward organization. The packers have for years been striving to unite, with more or less success. A convention has been called for next month at which time means will be adopted to make the organization more solid. The object is to take in all those at present not cligible to membership in any of the large unions. This is a step in the right direction. There are a large number of decorators, packers, etchers, puntyers, smoothers, grinders and fatters, and other kinds of labor, to which an organization would be greatly beneficial. While many of these would perhaps desire to form a separate union of their own, that object might be facilitated by going all together at the start. The ultimate object is, of course, to connect with the A. F. G. W. U. L. A. 360, or D. start. The ultimate object is, of course, to connect with the A. F. G. W. U., L. A. $00, or D. A.'s 120 of 149. The tendency of things is toward federation, and we believe that the time is not far distant when all those employed in the glass business will be in one body. Many of the most conservative members of these organizations hold ness will be in one body. Many of the most con-servative members of these organizations hold this view. A combination of window, plate, green, flint and miscellaneous glass workers would be a strong one indeed, and, while the advant-ages of amaignmation might not at first seem ap-parent, still a little study will reveal much. The plate workers are not the best organized people in the country, and they might find it beneficial to send a delegate to the convention in July.

THE BRAKEMEN'S STRIKE.

No Attempt at a Settlement of the Trouble on the P., V. & C. R. R. The strike of the through brakemen on the Monongabela division of the Pennsylvania Railroad presents an ominous appearance. Yesterday the through brakemen were notified to appear at the general offices, on the Southside, and receive their time. It is understood that this order was issued by the company with the object of allowing those brakemen who de sire to quit, to do so, and to put a stop to any growth of the strike, The Pennsylvania officials appear to be very solicitous that the strike should not spread, and are moving very slowly. They made no attempt yesterday to run any cars over the line, and are sending all west-bound freight through the city to the Panhandle. Another freight was taken to Monongahela City last evening, but to avoid any trouble with the remainder of the men, the company officials manned the car themselves. The striking brakemen have carefully avoided loitering about the stations on the road, and seem content to allow matters to remain as they are for the time. They have sent no committee to Superintendent Watt in regard to the strike, and the latter has made no overtures to them. strike should not spread, and are moving very them.

The car blockade at Port Perry has been relieved by the Pennsylvania Railroad, which is rapidly transferring the freight over its main line to Pittsburg, and it was aunounced last evening that not more than 100 cars are yet sidetracked at Port Perry.

The most important feature of the strike is the attitude of the yardmen. They aunounced yesterday that they would handle no freight cars coming in over the line until the strike is cars coming in over the line until the strike is settled. Through an inadvertancy it was stated in yesterday's DISPATCH that at the last Lake Erie strike the shifters at Olivers' mills were ordered out on the road to get out cara, but re fused. Pittsburg to be Honored by the Locomo-

This will be the first time that this organization ever held an international con-vention in Pittsburg, and the first time in 27 years that such an assembly has taken place in Pennsylvania. A public reception will be given by the Brotherhood in the Grand Opera House on the second or third day of its visit. A number of handsome, unique souvenirs will be distributed. These tokens will consist of small books, tastefully bound, and consisting of a programme of the second or the sisting of a programme of the convention ceremonies, a history of Pittsburg and portraits of the prominent leaders of the locomotive

The Amalgamated Convention's Work. The convention of the Amalgamated Association spent vesterday in hearing the reports of the Committee on Constitution. Twenty-nine different recommendations were made to the report, many of which were adopted. The scale is yet in the hands of the printers, but will be ready for the manufacturers this after-noon. A SUBSTITUTE FOR ELECTRICITY.

An Allegheny Man Working on a New Stree Car Motor.

Mr. W. S. Jarboe, a civil engineer in Allegheny, has about perfected a street car motor which some people believe, and among them some scientists, will do away with electricity on street railways. It is said the new motor is one that can be carried on the car, and will occupy but little space; is perfectly safe, and by its use electric wires will be supplai by its use electric wires will be supplanted both under ground and over head. As Mr. Jarboe refuses to talk about his invention, no information as to the principles on which it works could be gotten, but it is said to have been tried on the Pleasant Valley line, with very satisfactory results, and it is further stated that the company expects to substitute it for electricity, but the officials will not talk about the matter. about the matter.

DEFINING A PEDDLER.

Chief Brown Will Not Prosecute Drun Who Sell From Sample.

Three Italians were arrested on Laberty stree vesterday for violating the city ordinance reating to the licensing of peddlers. They gave their names Andrew Sommart, Andreas Scianiere and Marcuzio Eargelo.

Chief Brown says he does not propose to prosecute commercial travelers who come here prosecute commercial travelers who come here and sell from samples but do not deliver the goods at the time of sale. Only those who peddle are covered by the law under which the chief is proceeding, though he thinks it is unjust to compel persons who live and pay taxes in the city to take out a peddling license when the commercial traveler for a house in another city can come here and make sales of large automats sometimes areading a month at a amounts, sometimes spending a month at a time here, and pays nothing at all for the privi-lege. Book agents who deliver their books will be regarded as peddlers under this law and will be required to take out licenses.

Four Accidents in a Day, Two Fatal and Two Very Serious. John Lawson, employed at the National Tube Works, McKeesport, was carried to the Mercy Hospital yesterday. His face, neck and arms were badly burnt.
